Course Project: Top up your theory skills in a fun way with our experienced tutor who will explore a different grade in each session. Knowing your music theory is essential if you wish to progress beyond Grade 5 with your Associated Board of the Royal School of Music instrumental examinations. Past papers will be supplied and marked.

Materials List: Please bring a pencil or pen. Manuscript paper will be provided.

Tutor information:

Anne Want has a Diploma in Music Teaching (piano) by the Associated Board of the Royal Schools of Music (DipABRSM). She has a diploma in piano performance (with distinction) by Trinity College of Music. Anne has many years of experience of teaching children as well as adult education. She currently has over 40 private piano pupils and utilizes a range of different teaching styles to suit different personalities and ages.

Joan Child is an experienced classroom music teacher. She taught music to A level in two secondary schools, then moved on to advisory work, primary and secondary, for the London Borough of Harrow. She later led the Kingston Music Service for 14 years. She is presently involved in a number of adult orchestras, playing viola and violin and helping with their programmes and organization.
